Detachments of the Thirteenth Cavalry are hard on the bandit's trail, but no official word has come from the front to indicate their position.

Mexican reports state that Villa is a day ahead of his pursuers. If Villa reaches Durango City he will probably be joined by the forces of the Arrieta brothers, who command over 1000 men.

WALKED OUT OF SALOON ON MAR. 21; GAVE KEYS TO BARTENDER; BREAKERS CAST BODY UP YESTERDAY

"Jimmy, You'll look after things in my absence, won't you?"

Flinging the above remark to his bartender, James Flannery, in care free fashion, Oscar Sundbeck, owner of the Oberon saloon and for thirteen years a resident of the west side walked out of his saloon at 8 o'clock on March 21st.

That was twenty days ago.

Yesterday morning beach combers gathering driftwood on one of the San Diego beaches found the body of a drowned man.

At the morgue the body was identified by Moose and Eagle fraternal cards as Oscar Sundbeck, Richmond Cal. He is said to have been swimming when drowned.

First news of the gruesome find was received in this city by H. O. Watson, secretary of Richmond lodge of Moose.

Watson in turn notified Bert Curry and August Johnson, Sundbeck's former partner at which time inquiries were hastily made for further particulars.

Friends of Sundbeck fearing for his safety, traced his movements on March 21st to First and Broadway streets, Oakland where he was lost track of.

"Oscar has met with foul play," is the statement made by Johnson as to Sundbeck's drowning, "he was always too jovial to be troubled with melancholia and would be the last man I would suspect to commit suicide."

Friends of Sundbeck doubt his death by suicide, stating his business conditions to have been good and to have been free of business worries.

Sundbeck was 46 years of age and a native of Salt Lake City, Utah. He came to Richmond in 1903 opening the Oberon saloon with August Johnson. According to Undertaker Curry, Sundbeck has a brother and sister surviving him at Salt Lake City.

He was a charter member of Point Richmond Aerie of Eagles and a member of Richmond lodge of Moose.

Richmond, Cal.

UPHEAVALS OF HUMANITY

From the college professors we have heard for several years that all great upheavals of humanity have their origin in economic dissatisfaction, but history does not bear out this assertion.

Many vast movements have occurred, the motive force of which has been supplied by religion. We cannot suppose that Arabia was overpopulated at the time her armies, under the banner of the camel driver of Mecca, went forth to conquer eastward even into India and westward into Spain. Nor do we discover in the Crusades that precipitated the might of western Europe upon the Saracen empire of the east any economic inspiration. Christian Europe desired the ideal achievement of recovering the tomb of the Savior from the profaning hands of the Mohammedans.

There have been, also, in human history movements of great moment and consequence which represented nothing other than lust of conquest and desire for loot. Such a movement was that of the Mongols which swept westward to Moscow, and southward over Mesopotamia and into India, as well as eastward across China. This successive invasion which India has sustained, Afghan, Persian, Moslem, Mongol and British, have been conquests for robbery or enrichment. Each conquest was effected, comparatively, by a small band who remaine dto rule to exploit, not to colonize, and therefore oust native occupiers.

But a third class of movements, those of tribes, people, nations, emigrants and immigrants, has established the real foundations of history and has changed the face of the earth. The barbarians who pressed upon the Roman empire and finally overthrew it, incidentally looted and lored, but principally obeyed the urging of pressure, which induced them to conquer in order to settle. Slavs, Huns, Finns, Bulgars, pushed against the Germanic tribes, who in turn pushed upon the Roman empire. The barbarian invasion resulted from pressure of population, as did the European settlement of the new world discovered by Columbus, and that pressure is continuing after four centuries.

We conceive of a civilization minus the inspiration of religion, as a conquering incentive. We may hope for a civilization which shall restrain the ambition for conquest on the part of monarchs and castes. But no device of civilization that can be proposed has power to mitigate the necessity for expansion that arises from over-population and under-supply. That necessity operated before history commenced, and its scope is wider today in the twentieth century than ever before.

There may be a remedy, but it may prove worse than the disease. Indeed, the nation which applies it, being an isolated practicer, imperils its existence. As France whose forty millions are confronted by sixty-five million Germans.

Moreover, if there are no moral and social objections to the remedy, it is impractical unless all the nations together adopt it. There can be no change of such universal adoption. The most civilized nations adopting it literally commit suicide in favor of the less civilized races, such as the Chinese.

We Americans flatter ourselves that we possess a higher national morality than others do, and our president confidently announces that the United States never will annex another square mile. The illusion is perilous.

OUR COUNTRY'S HEALTH

A few years ago the death rate in New Hanover county, North Carolina, was 29 per thousand. That was twice as high as the average for the entire country. The people of New Hanover county decided that they would stop dying off so fast. They employed a competent health officer, and co-operated with him. After five years, they reduced the death rate from 29 to 16.

The saving of child life was especially impressive. They reduced the general rate of children under five years to about one-third of the old race. Instead of 411 deaths from infantile diarrhea, there were 80. Instead of 100 deaths from typhoid, there were 9.

All this was accomplished by finding out the causes of sickness and death, and getting rid of them. By means of improved sanitation and better personal hygiene, the people of New Hanover county made headway against every disease but pellagra. They will probably rout that,too, no wthat its cause is no longer a mystery, but it known to be due to an ill balanced diet.

The health officials of the county, state and nation deserve praise, but the people themselves deserve just as mus. They did their part. One example will show their attitude. In 1914 the United States public health service made a sanitary survey of the rural districts of the county and told every property owner how his premises might be improved. When the health service checked up a year later, they found that 45 per cent of the residents had made the improvements suggested.

Rural communities in general have been reproached for having a higher sickness and mortality rate than cities, when their rate ought naturally to be lower. If every community followed the example of this North Carolina county for a few years, there would be no more ground for reproach.

Speaking about the high cost of living, the Crockett Signal has figured it out that it is cheaper to be dying than to buy drugs. The principal ingredients in prescriptions have advanced from 200 to 1800 per cent, and if the war keeps on no telling where prices will go to. Belladonna has advanced 700 per cent, potassium bromide 1500, quinine 1200, sage 500, calomel 200, phenacetin 1800, thymol 600, and so on along the line. The druggist is compelled to raise the price for filling prescriptions.

If the army's 1,200 machine guns are undependable, as has been said, it's up to somebody to get busy p. d. q.

Just now we are a satisfied nation with plenty of room, and having no incentive otherwise we fancy ourselves moral. He who has no temptation always assumes that his morality is superior to that of the sinner who has temptations and yields to them.

We are not only a satisfied nation, but we think other nations are also, or ought to be; whereas, many of them are not, and cannot be. Furthermore, we may not be a satisfied nation for long. If there are other lands sparsely populated and with abundant resources of rich acres, mines and other forms of wealth, our people will go to them, and if the laws of those lands do not suit them, they will begin to agitate for the annexation of such lands, just as a little more than half century ago there was a agitation for the annexation of Texas and by and by, it was annexed.

DRUG STORE PRICES SOAR HEAVENWARD

Perhaps you wonder why it is that the drug store cash register tears such a huge chunk out of your money. A local druggist today supplied the following facts concerning the sudden rise in prices caused by the war.

Chloroform, 2 1-2; mercury and its salts, calomel, corrosive sublimate, etc, 6; asperin, 2; bismuth and its salts, 2; salol, 12; soda bromide, 15; resorcin, 25; glycerine, 3; strychnine, 3 1-2; quinine; 6; saccharin, 6; antipyrin, 15; acetanilid, 15; carbolic acid, 15; potassium bromide, 15; salicylic acid, 10, oxalic acid, 8; coffeine, 3; hydlichinon, 10; sodium salicylate, 8; potassium permanganate, 20; wood alcohol, 1 1-2; proxide of hydrogen, 2; phenacetin, 20; and there are hundreds and hundreds of others.

HORSES GO HUNGRY IN PORTLAND, NO HAY

PORTLAND, Ore., April 10.—Several thousand horses in Portland will go supperless tonight. Not a bale of hay is to be had in the city at any price. Supplies of hay are reported scarce throughout the state, and the stock on hand here was exhausted several days ago.

"WHY IS AN ANTI SUFFRAGIST?" ASKS BRENDA FOWLER

If there are any anti-suffragists here who want to do missionary work they are invited to call upon Miss Ethel Clifton and Miss Brenda Fowler, at the Oakland Orpheum.

The Misses Clifton and Fowler are two young women who have written, staged and are acting in their own playlet, "The Saint and the Sinner." The man here is quite invisible, for he is supposed to be lying desperately ill in the next room, so it is entirely a woman's play. "We are both suffragists and try to inject a few suffrage truths in our plays," said Miss Clifton.

"But there is one thing that I cannot understand, and that is an anti-suffragist," said Miss Fowler. "I can imagine a woman might not be interested in government herself or want to take part in it, but for any woman to work to keep other women from voting who feel that they should do so, is past all comprehension. Now won't someone please tell me just how an 'anti' feels?"

Miss Clifton and Miss Fowler wrote three other plays which are on the Orpheum circuit this season, "The Coward," presented by Lillian Kingsbury, "The Decision of Governor Locke," by Claude Gillingwater, and "The Devil He Did." "The Saint and the Sinner" in which they are personally appearing is a cleverly written sketch, dealing with two women—the wife who neglects her husband and the girl who loves him.

The audience is left to answer the question for themselves; "Saint or Sinner—Which?"

BARD'S DEATH IS PUZZLE TO SEERS

SAN FRANCISCO, April 7.—What calendar hung upon the wall of William Shakespeare's humble cottage when he died?

This question agitated San Francisco's literati today. The learned ones want to do something handsome for Shakespeare. They want to have a celebration about him, and they want to have it on the tercentary of his demise. But what day is that?

If Shakespeare used the Russian calendar, he died on May 4th.

Perchance, however, he adhered to the Julian calendar, in which case he left this vale of sorrow April 13.

Should he, peradventure, have been progressive and used the modern calendar, he would have breathed his last on April 23rd.

According to the Gregorian calendar, which he might have favored, Shakespeare expired May 5. The encyclopedia says he died May 6.

Zooks, likewise zounds, odds bodkins, also Mary-come-up, it looks as if Shakespeare put in a couple of pretty busy months dying during April-May, 1616.

TO FLY AT COUNTY SEAT ON APRIL 24

OAKLAND, April 10.—Captain P. A. Van Tassell is building a torpedo-shaped balloon, to be named "City of Martinez" which is to make its first flight April 23 in the Contra Costa county seat. The gas bag is 44 by 48 feet and has a capacity of 5000 cubic feet.

AT THE REGENT THEATRE

"The Devil's Prayer-Book," a George Kleine photodrama of five reels, offered at the Regent theater tomorrow is said to be a production of unusual strength and merit. The plot is forceful, but not too complex so as to make it utterly unnatural or impossible, and indeed the story might be duplicated in many families if the numerous recitals in court regarding Jekyl-Hyde characters are to be credited. A person has only to recall the large number of family desertion cases littering our court records, and it will not be hard to imagine cases parallel with the one cited in "The Devil's Prayer-Book" where a rich man finds that a young girl thief, visiting his second wife, and who is planning to rob his wife's jewelry strong-box, is his own daughter deserted by him while he was sowing his wild oats. He had not seen his child since he deserted her and her mother fifteen years before, and he had no way of knowing whether she was still living. There are many parents today who do not know where their children are, and many children who do not know where their parents are. This single phase of the predominating theme in "The Devil's Prayer-Book" appeals strongly.

Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Drew will be seen in a delightful comedy, and a Ham and Bud comedy will also be shown.

CHARGINED

Some people hate publicity like the young Detroit man. He was dressed in a tight fitting suit of the latest cut, and his whole costume was a dream of sartorial refinement. And he was plainly embarrassed as he entered the editor's office. "I was intensely shocked to read a notice in your paper of my engagement," he began. "I can not tell you how shocked I was. I was positively chagrined. My fiancee was chagrined; we were all chagrined. How much for fifty copies of the paper?"

WALNUT CREEK WOMAN HAS SKULL CRUSHED

OAKLAND, April 10.—Mrs. Frederick E. Brooks, wife of a civil engineer of Walnut Creek, Contra Costa county, probably was fatally injured late Saturday night in a peculiar accident on San Pablo avenue, this city, when an automobile in which she and her husband were riding collided with a horse and buggy.

With Brooks at the wheel of their car and Mrs. Brooks at his side, a rapidly driven buggy approached. In attempting to avoid running down the buggy, Brooks swerved the car sharply. As he did so the horse reared on his hind legs and lashed out viciously, striking Mrs. Brooks on the head with both front feet time after time. Brooks hurried with his wife to the Fabiola hospital, where it was found that her skull was crushed. Attending physicians believe Mrs. Brooks will not live.

NOTES FROM THE PLAYHOUSES

PANTAGES THEATRE (Oakland)

Alexander Pantages, vaudeville magnate, has proved a success in a new role, for he has shown the theatrical world that he is more than a controller of theatrical attractions; he is perhaps the most artistic assembler of vaudeville bills in the country. Any who doubt this broad statement need only drop around to the Pantages this week to see for themselves.

Tony Pastor once said that "Something for Everybody" was the ideal in vaudeville. Pantages paraphased this into "Everything for Everybody" and proceeded to assemble his own shows along that model. The result is startling.

A wonderfully balanced bill this week is the result of his experiment. For those who like to laugh there are many laughs, and there is also some dancing, music, classical and popular, several novelties and surprises, a neat acrobatic turn entirely different from anything of the kind ever seen in vaudeville before, and a musical comedy featuring a girl comedian — one of the few real girl comedians in the world—who is a second Charlotte Greenwood with improvements.

Al G. Fields, in his comic classic, "The Misery of a Hansome Cab," is the big laughing hit of the show this week. It is eminently a success as a laugh maker. Elongated Al, his assembled horse, his rickety cab, and the jokes attendant on the situation, keep the audience in a steady gale of mirth for twenty side-splitting minutes. Broadway has long known this act. Oakland will long remember it and laugh anew.

Tommy Allen (She's a girl) is the second Charlotte Greenwood, in "The Boarding School Maids." Her dances are the funniest affairs ever seen on any stage, clever music, pretty girls, and some original and clever songs and patter aid in the pleasing offering.

Fletcher Norton and Maud Earl have a magnificent dancing spectacle, in which lavish settings, clean comedy, some songs, and much charming dancing are seen. It is a dancing act par excellence. Reed and Wood are a remarkable bass singer and a pretty girl, who have several surprises in store for their audiences.

Arline, gypsy violinists, and Flavilla, a fair girl accordeonist, who "stopped the show" last night, are other attractions. "The Iron Claw" is the film feature. "The Girl and the Game" closes at the Pantages this week, with Helen and Storm married and all ending happily.

Next week sees "The Dream Pirates" and several other big features.

FEEDING LIONS IS VERY THRILLING EXPERIENCE

The Barnes big three ring wild animal circus offers one of the best opportunities for the study of natural history obtainable. A year's study of a dozen books would not give one the knowledge of wild animals that may be secured by paying a visit to the big menagerie of this show.

You'll be entertained if you see this Barnes circus. There's no doubt about it. Not only will you be entertained, but you will have the chance to witness a spectacle unobtainable in any other manner—the feeding of hundreds of ferocious wild animals. It is a sight you will not forget. After each afternoon's performance the meat eating animals are given their daily rations. During this period one can see the lions, tigers, leopards, pumas, jaguars and other members of the giant cat tribe in uproarous activity. Their ferocity and great strength is openly shown. To witness their feeding gives one a better idea of what it means to be a trainer of jungle bred beasts.

The 600 animals with the show are all actors. Every one of them have a stunt to do—they earn their keep. The show's program is almost entirely given by them. Sixty-five big numbers are encompassed in this program. These animal actors take one over the entire gamut of human emotions. There are no "cry spots" on the program, however, but every moment is one of keenest interest, delight, instructive, amusement or thrilling anxiety.

Sixty lions, tigers, leopards, pumas and jaguars; fifty grizzly, Siberian, cinnamon, black and polar bears; fifty dogs, fifty monkeys, thirty Rock Mountain goats, herds of elephants, camels, zebras, and ruhus; troupes of seals and sea lions, kangaroos and hyenas are actors with this circus.

The two most prominent and unrivalled features with the show are the Barnes challenge, world premium horses and ponies—550 in number, and the great group of 24 full-grown, jungle-bred African lions shown in one act. This lion act is the greatest wild animal spectacle ever successfully presented to the public.

Patrons to the Barnes shows are provided with plenty of clean, wholesome comedy, provoked by a dozen clever clowns and fifty fun-making elephants, monkeys, ponies, dogs, bears and the mules Danger, Dynamite, and Mileaminit.

A four-band, mile-long, parade is presented to the public at 10:30. Performances are given at 2 and 8 p. m. The date for Richmond is Wednesday, April 19th.

AT RICHMOND THEATRE

A year ago colored motion pictures were in their infancy. Photographers had been struggling in the attempt to produce a moving picture film that contained life coloring throughout which would contain a consistency of shade and hues that would not make it rediculous as a whole. The few colored pictures which were then shown on the screen were poor attempts. Italian photographers perhaps made the greatest efforts to bring about this revolution in the art of motion photography but they met with little success up until a short time since. Incessant experimenting, however, finally brought its reward and now the colored motion picture presents a startling resemblance to the scene as originally photographed.

Plain black and white films cannot give to the scene its true value, no matter how excellent the work of the photographer. The principal value of motion picture lies in the presentation of a wide range of scenes and lightning changes from one to another. Unless these are true to life the play loses many of its realistic qualities.

"The Beloved Vagabond" which comes to the Richmond theater this evening is taken in color. Five reels of colored motion pictures. The successful production of a play of this size in colors is an achievement.

Although this feature alone makes the play worth seeing, the intrinsic value of the plot and the clearly conceived characters is perhaps even more striking. The photoplay is taken direct from the famous novel by the same name, from the pen of William J. Locke. A short time since it might truthfully have been said that this was one of the most widely read and popular of current day fiction novels.

In the cast are such well known screen stars as Edward Arden, Bliss Hilford and Kathryn Browne Decker.
